

Color chart – Heirloom Monograms 3 – Elsa Goussard

Please note, these designs are delicate and I suggest you use light and pastel colors for these designs. I put in running stitches from leaf to leaf, otherwise there would have been lots of small jump stitches between the leaves. If you find a jump stitch on the leaves, it wasn't possible to put in a running stitch and the jump stitch should be clipped immediately.

The leaves must be stitched in a light green shade, or otherwise these running stitches will show through. If you decide to use a darker green for the leaves, then the little flowers should also be stitched in a darker color. Also note, the color names aren't necessarily the colors of the threads that I used. The color 'Linen' will have to tone in with the background fabric that you are going to embroider on.

These are the colors that I used for my samples, but you have to pick colors that will go with your color scheme or the fabric that you are going to use.
